Starting at the valley station of the Hochfelln cable car, you run east on the Fürbergloipe 1 in classic or skating style. You follow this trail for three kilometers along a piece of forest and then switch to the Fürberg trail 2. Don't worry, when you switch from trail 1 to trail 2 you will find a tracked connection, which, however, crosses several roads.

Over snow-covered meadows and fields, the cross-country ski trail slowly leads you back in the direction of the valley station with a total distance of 7.5 kilometers. Thanks to fewer inclines, you can let your gaze wander to the surrounding mountains. The Chiemgau Alps and the Hochfelln, which is also called the Chiemgau viewing terrace, stretch out in front of you. Depending on your speed and practice, you'll be back at the valley station car park in about an hour.

The three-kilometre-long Fürbergloipe 1 is illuminated twice a week, on Tuesdays and Thursdays. From 6:00 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. you can end the evening with sport.
