

MTB 96 Stoißeralm-Teisenberg Runde Inzell

TOUR

The goal and highlight of the MTB classic is the managed Stoißeralm with the impressive panoramic view of the Salzburg region.

Route: Adlgaß (805 m) - Inzellerhöhe (912 m) - Stoißeralm (1272 m) - Hubertushütte - Farnbichl - Obergschwendt - Holzen - Hutterer - Brenner - Teisenberg - Einsiedl - Adlgaß

The best starting point for this tour is the parking lot at the Forsthaus Adlgaß, four kilometers east of Inzell at an altitude of 805 meters. On the best roads, you start along the creek uphill - flat at first, then steeper - to the Inzellerhöhe. Here you follow the signs in the direction of the Stoißeralm. The wide forest path runs quite steeply through shady mixed forest up to the Alm. This is enthroned on a beautiful clearing and offers the best view towards Salzburg, the Hochstaufen and far into the Berchtesgaden Alps. Behind the Stoißeralm you drive slightly uphill through an alpine pasture area, then crosses a small forest (short stretch) and takes a narrow path downhill to the south. Soon you come to a wide forest path and turn sharp right, past the Hubertushütte. Later you follow a left-hand bend to the south, come to Farnbichl and continue steeply downhill to Obergschwendt. A wide gravel path leads via Holzen and Hutterer to the district of Brenner. Here you go on an asphalt road to Einsiedl and continue on a narrow meadow path back to the starting point at the forester's lodge Adlgaß. Attention E-MTBers: This medium-difficult route contains steep gradients, it is better to push briefly here!

Highlight: stop and view from the southern terrace of the Stoißeralm
